The success of Remote Deposit Capture over the past few years has been tremendous for both financial institutions and corporate practitioners alike. Lowering deposit clearing costs, expediting funds availability and overall ease of use has jump started the “deposit anywhere” movement, and expectations continue to grow. Banks require added risk mitigation tools, corporations want more robust functionality and hardware device prices are becoming more competitive. Now is the time for the software that drives “deposit anywhere” products to evolve to provide more efficiencies, added functionality, unified reporting and better transparency.

Sometimes RDC just isn't enough!

Enable Knowledge Management with a Unified View....

Even in the best of times, determining your cash management and liquidity needs is a challenge, add the current economic conditions, counterparty risk, tighter credit standards and determining your working capital is that much more daunting. In order to forecast cash flow, timely and accurate information from all of your trading partners, financial service providers and internal departments, is critical. With all of the various payment mechanisms available, coupled with the multiple banks large organizations use, a holistic view of a companies payments is painstakingly difficult.

TCM Unify® has the capability to acquire, aggregate, normalize and manage all of the information from your banks and trading partners. Add to this the ability to remotely capture transactions, this system will enable any organization the ability to have a unified view of all business critical information. The creation of a unified view is knowledge that's easily managed.
