ImageScan Enhances TCM Unify® with Addition of Remote Transaction Capture Capabilities

Lanham, Md. - January 20, 2010 – ImageScan Inc., a leading developer of payment and transaction processing software, announced today the addition of Remote Transaction Capture capabilities for its comprehensive transaction unification system, TCM Unify®, further complimenting it's ability to acquire, aggregate, normalize and manage transactional content across any organization.

This new component of TCM Unify® enables end users to capture any type of transaction on a common platform, at any location. Whether it's checks for a remote deposit or internal forms, invoices, legal documents or other business critical documents for processing and/or archive, Remote Transaction Capture can accommodate it.

“This new feature enhances an already robust unification system. The ability to include traditional paper intensive transactions, both financial and non financial, with those already in an electronic form, truly unveils the power of TCM Unify®.” John O’Gara, Director of Strategic Product Marketing at ImageScan, said. He further adds “Financial Institutions large or small and corporations from all industries can now truly leverage previous IT investments, manage complex content streams and avoid future capital investment. Transactional content management has broken through and it’s here to stay.”

Remote Transaction Capture was developed to incorporate the latest in hardware capture devices, or can just as easily attach with any TWAIN-compliant scanner, providing the organization further benefits by reusing previously procured scanning equipment or identify and use devices of their choice. Through a smart client or as a desktop application Remote Transaction Capture enables the capture of checks and documents alike and the secure transmission to a central TCM Unify® environment.
